I WHO WE ARE AND WHAT WE DO

Health Canada's Health Promotion and Programs Branch (HPPB) for the Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region was established in 1992. The Branch seeks to promote understanding and action on the broad factors that determine health, to provide leadership in addressing the health of specific populations and key health issues, and to work with other partners to develop strategies which contribute towards improving the health of Canadians.

During fiscal year 1999 - 2000, our mandate has been to deliver federal health promotion programs in Alberta, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut through working collaboratively with organizations in government, non-government and private sectors. (Beginning fiscal year 2000-2001, the Ontario Region of HPPB will assume the federal health promotion program delivery mandate for Nunavut.)

A key strategic direction for HPPB is population health. This is an approach which addresses the entire range of factors and the way they act together in determining the health and wellness of Canadians. Factors such as healthy child development, social supports, employment, education, and a clean environment all interact and impact our health. Population health strategies take into account these interactions and are designed to affect the health of an entire population or significant sub-populations.

The HPPB Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region uses a life cycle approach to its program planning and delivery. Research and social marketing staff provide support in the development and implementation of these initiatives through strategic knowledge management and population health marketing.

The HPPB Regional Offices in Edmonton and Calgary work closely with Alberta Health and Wellness to ensure that federal health promotion programs complement provincial priorities. As programs are implemented, special attention is directed towards avoiding duplication and overlap. The Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region also works collaboratively with Health Canada's national HPPB directorates and with other federal departments such as Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC), Canadian Heritage, and Justice Canada. In particular, we partner with Environment Canada on a community capacity-building initiative focussed on issues involving health and the environment. HPPB also maintains close links with community organizations; private foundations; associations representing health professionals; diverse cultural groups; Métis, First Nations and Inuit organizations; and Alberta universities and research centres.

II HOW TO PUT THIS REPORT TO WORK

The purpose of this report is to provide our partners - other federal departments, the Government of Alberta, Regional Health Authorities and Regional Councils, research organizations, municipal governments, the business sector, politicians, and non-profit health, social support, and environmental groups - with a comprehensive resource describing all projects funded in the province by HPPB Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region. Health practitioners, researchers and decision-makers will find it a practical source of information and data as they plan and implement health initiatives. The report is also useful as a networking tool to develop or enhance intersectoral links.

Projects described in this report were initiated or ongoing during the period April 1, 1999, to March 31, 2000. Total amounts of funding for multi-year periods are not listed as this document seeks to offer a snapshot of community initiatives, who did them, and how much money was allocated for work during a single fiscal year.

For easy reference, project summaries are grouped according to the Alberta Health Region in which the project sponsor is located. Charts in the Introduction provide information on the total amounts of funding approved in each health region. Projects funded in the Métis Settlements are grouped together in one section as well as appearing in the appropriate health region sections.

The report also provides information on the organizational structure of the HPPB, Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region. Since a key theme in our work is collaboration both internally and externally, we have added 2 new sections to our report this year to capture how this important way of doing business adds value to regional activities. Section V - Our Region at Work: Setting New Directions, Strengthening Programs and Building Capacities shows how HPPB integrates collaborative, intersectoral practices into the design and implementation of its endeavours. Section VI - Spotlight on Special Collaborations highlights key initiatives, working groups or committees, models of practice and social marketing accomplishments which are especially significant for furthering the spirit and practice of population health.

The final section of the report takes a look at the future directions which the Regional HPPB Office plans to take as we continue to work collaboratively with our partners to address the factors determining the health of our population.

III ALBERTA, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES AND NUNAVUT REGION

HPPB PROGRAMS AND INITIATIVES

The population health approach continues to guide policy and program development in the Health Promotion and Programs Branch. It is within this context that the Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region funded projects in Alberta during 1999/2000 under the following programs: the Aboriginal Head Start Initiative; the AIDS Community Action Program (the Canadian Strategy on HIV/AIDS); the Hepatitis C Prevention, Support and Research Program (Community-Based Support Component); the Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program; the Community Action Program for Children; and the Population Health Fund (which includes the Community Animation Program).

Projects funded under these programs receive support through grants or contribution agreements with Health Canada, and brief descriptions of program scope are provided below under Current Programs. Funding streams described under Emerging Programs will also offer project funding under grants and contributions but this will not occur until fiscal year 2000/2001. The work undertaken by Tobacco Enforcement Officers on the broad area of tobacco control/compliance does not have this type of component and is thus listed separately under Special Initiatives. Please note that abbreviations for program names are commonly used throughout this report.

A. CURRENT PROGRAMS

Aboriginal Head Start Initiative (AHS)

Supports the development and implementation of community-driven culturally appropriate programming designed to support healthy child development and school readiness.

AIDS Community Action Program, Canadian Strategy On HIV/AIDS (ACAP)

Develops and strengthens the ability of community-based organizations to address their particular HIV/AIDS issues through targeted prevention education, health promotion for people living with HIV/AIDS and creating supportive environments. ACAP supports both project and operational funding.

Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program (CPNP)

Helps community groups and organizations to address the needs of at-risk pregnant women, and to assist them to have healthier pregnancies. The program also promotes breastfeeding and supports mothers and infants up to 12 month post partum, in order to promote child health and development.

Community Action Program for Children (CAPC)

Helps community groups address the health, educational and developmental needs of children at-risk aged 0-6 years, while strengthening and supporting their families.

III ALBERTA, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES AND NUNAVUT REGION

HPPB PROGRAMS AND INITIATIVES

Population Health Fund (PHF)

Increases community capacity for action on, and across the determinants of health by supporting initiatives that facilitate joint planning and coordinated action across sectors.

Population Health Fund dollars also support the Community Animation Program (CAP) which is designed to build the capacity of communities to make links and take action on health and environment issues. Environment Canada and Health Canada each contribute $75,000 towards CAP in the region. In addition to supporting sustainable development goals at the community level, CAP is a model of intersectoral collaboration federally.

Hepatitis C Prevention, Support and Research Program

The Community-Based Support Component of the Hepatitis C Prevention, Support and Research Program enhances the capacity of community-based organizations at the national, regional and local levels to provide support to persons infected, affected or at risk of Hepatitis C. The objectives of this component are to:

- contribute to greater understanding and appreciation by Canadians about the nature and effects of Hepatitis C, and greater sensitivity to and support for those persons infected, affected or at risk of Hepatitis C; and
- strengthen the capacity of regional and local community-based organizations to provide support to those persons infected, affected or at risk of Hepatitis C.

B. EMERGING PROGRAMS: LAUNCH SPRING/SUMMER 2000

Rural and Remote Health Innovations Initiative

Designed to support improved health in rural and remote areas and to increase community capacity for action on the determinants of health. The initiative seeks to:

- improve the health of communities and individuals living in rural and remote areas;
- provide models for use in other parts of the country; and
- support the development of a rural health strategy for Canadians.

Diabetes Strategy

Designed to develop and enhance education, awareness and prevention activities for Type II Diabetes. Program activities are intended to link healthy eating and active living components.

III ALBERTA, NORTHWEST TERRITORIES AND NUNAVUT REGION

HPPB PROGRAMS AND INITIATIVES

D. SPECIAL INITIATIVES

The Tobacco Enforcement and Compliance Program

The Health Promotion and Programs Branch is responsible for the administration of the federal Tobacco Act 1997 in Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut. Education and enforcement activities are directed at controlling access to, advertising and promoting tobacco products. Prevention and reduction of youth tobacco use is a key element of the compliance program.

The Health Promotion and Programs Branch is a member of Alberta Tobacco Reduction Alliance (ATRA). Staff involved with the tobacco program work closely with ATRA and its members, which include all Regional Health Authorities, several non-government organizations and private businesses, on a number of different activities related to tobacco reduction in the province. These activities include participating on the ATRA Youth Team and Public Policy Steering Committee as well as providing support to the 1999 Clear the Air Smoke Free Homes Campaign. Efforts have also been made to assist the Francophone community in making ties with Francophone Tobacco Reduction Organizations across the country.

IV ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE

HPPB Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region has developed an organizational structure to facilitate Health Canada's vision of a renewed health system based on a population health approach. This framework provides a broad, more holistic concept of wellness which addresses the wide range of determinants that affect our health, and supports comprehensive and coordinated action by the government, voluntary and private sectors.

The life cycle approach to population health addresses health as we move through three stages: childhood and youth, early to mid-adulthood, and later life. Our region has established 5 sections to carry out business within the population health framework, and to focus action on the health determinants within and across the life stages. These sections and their key roles are listed below.

- Research and Knowledge Development - knowledge management, policy recommendations, evaluation and models of practice, emerging intersectoral initiatives (e.g., homelessness, broad wellness activities linked with Aboriginal Health), and support for federal/provincial/territorial relations.
- Childhood and Youth - program delivery within a population health framework addressing childhood and youth through the management of the Community Action Program for Children, the Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program, and the Aboriginal Head Start Initiative.
- Population Health - program delivery within a population health framework focussing on early to mid-adulthood and later life through management of the Population Health Fund (includes the Community Animation Program); the AIDS Community Action Program; the Community-Based Support Program of the Hepatitis C Prevention, Support and Research Program; and through management of Tobacco Enforcement and Compliance Initiatives.
- Social Marketing and Partnerships - population health marketing initiatives, training in social marketing planning and practices, development and enhancement of intersectoral partnerships and electronic knowledge management.
- Planning and Operations - organizational administration, human resources, planning, finance and quality standards.

SETTING NEW DIRECTIONS, STRENGTHENING PROGRAMS AND BUILDING CAPACITIES*INTRODUCTION

Working with partners is a given in most initiatives that focus on health. What's new about this practice today is working towards a common goal with improved health as one of several desired outcomes, and where many different partners share power at the decision-making table. All of us in the prevention/promotion field are sharpening our skills and striving to enhance our capacity to practice intersectoral action effectively. Collaborations with government and non-government organizations from Justice, Education, Employment, Social Services, and Economic Development (as well as the traditionally defined health field) are keys to success in this work, as is the development of meaningful partnerships with businesses.

As we strengthen our programs and capacity to influence health strategically through using the population health approach, we are clearly thinking and acting in new ways. In this context, the term "setting new directions" means thinking comprehensively about these diverse factors that determine health and weaving together equally comprehensive action strategies which use the strengths and resources of multi-sectoral organizations. The following pages in this section will provide examples of regional work in this field.

RESEARCH AND KNOWLEDGE DEVELOPMENT SECTION

The Research and Knowledge Development Section (RKDS) provides regional leadership and support as HPPB, AB/NWT/Nunavut moves forward in its active implementation of the population health approach. RKDS has been the focal point for regional policy work on HPPB pre/post division program management related to the Northwest Territories and Nunavut, and also provides recommendations on emerging policy directions overall in health promotion and population health.

RKDS works in the broad health research area through its support for research undertaken by university and front-line practitioners, and its direct involvement in the development of frameworks and models which can be applied to population health work in the community. We also are involved in consultations with various stakeholder groups in partnership with other Health Canada Branches or the HPPB National Office (for example, support for the Health Protection Branch public legislative renewal consultations and active facilitation of consultative sessions on the establishment of Children's Centres of Excellence.)

RKDS also works in the broad area of Aboriginal Health, with a special focus on emerging health issues as various First Nations, Métis and Inuit groups and entities look at the development of health systems and frameworks for program delivery. In this role, RKDS has established linkages with Métis Peoples within Alberta and provides support for initiatives which address urban Aboriginal homelessness.

SETTING NEW DIRECTIONS, STRENGTHENING PROGRAMS AND BUILDING CAPACITIES

Research Activities

RKDS works in close collaboration with members of the Alberta Consortium for Health Promotion Research and Education (i.e., the Centre for Health Promotion Studies (CHPS) at the University of Alberta, the University of Calgary, the Alberta Cancer Board (Calgary), the Alberta Centre for Well-Being, and the Nechi Institute for Research, Training and Health Promotions). This Alberta-wide group seeks to advance health promotion research, education and dissemination to inform policy and to improve the health of Albertans. The Consortium recently entered into a working relationship with the Edmonton Social Planning Council, a non-government organization with a mandate for work in social policy, community programming and public education. The Council will provide a coordinative structure for the Consortium and will facilitate an extension of Consortium reach in collaborative research and dissemination.

RKDS also provides support for health promotion and population health research through its participation on the Advisory Committee for the Centre for Health Promotion Studies at the University of Alberta, and its role on multi-sectoral advisory committees which support research on issues faced by low income populations and new Canadian children and youth.

RKDS also continues to be involved in international projects relating to program delivery in the Russian Far East. Previously, RKDS acted as a resource to the Edmonton Social Planning Council in its Municipal Democratization Project in the Sakha Republic (Siberia), meeting with delegates from the City of Yakutsk and providing information on funding streams for community-based programs and services. During the current fiscal year, RKDS has served as a member of the Project Advisory Committee for the Sustainable Rural Health Project sponsored by the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) and undertaken by the Canadian Circumpolar Institute, University of Alberta. During the summer of 1999, RKDS and Aboriginal Head Start Program staff assisted the project through the arrangement and coordination of field visits for Russian health care staff to community services sites in Alberta.

Model Development:

Analytical Framework for the Regional Mobilization of Population Health

In 1998, Health Canada published a key document entitled A Position Paper for Health Promotion and Programs Branch Staff: Taking Action on Population Health. The significance of Taking Action lies in the fact that it synthesized and clarified what is involved in "doing the business of population health", or in mobilizing population health. As the Branch began to discuss this document, HPPB Regional Directors took the lead in mobilizing population health in their respective regions and actively engaged staff in this task.

During the summer of 1999, the regions developed a mobilization work plan. The plan focussed on highlighting regional learnings and contributions to the Branch population health approach by documenting and analysing case studies drawn from each of their 6 offices. While the case studies would be diverse, regions would use a common analytical tool or framework to develop and report on their work. The regions then set up a taskforce of representatives from RKDS, Quebec, and MB/SK, to develop the framework and to consult with managers on its application.

SETTING NEW DIRECTIONS, STRENGTHENING PROGRAMS AND BUILDING CAPACITIES

The resulting framework is a case study guide consisting of a series of questions designed to shed light on how the regions are mobilizing population health and what they have achieved. It seeks to enable regions to pull out common themes about the value-added of regional work in population health mobilization. The framework can also serve as a foundation for the development of evaluation tools and methods to assess the outcomes of case study work in the short, medium and long term. Regions plan to put the framework into work during fiscal year 2000/2001.

Work on Homelessness

HPPB, Alberta/NWT/Nunavut is part of an intersectoral federal team (includes Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) - Lead, Canadian Heritage, and Justice Canada, among others) working on the issue of homelessness in the Region. At present, there are two homelessness committees, one in each of Edmonton and Calgary (cities determined federally to be among the ten major urban centres where homelessness is an urgent issue). As well as providing staff support in undertaking homelessness "counts" in November, 1999 and the design/implementation of a Homelessness Awareness Day on March 16, 2000, RKDS collaborated with the Population Health Section to support an Aboriginal Housing Forum on March 2 and 3, 2000.

The Nechi Institute for Research, Training and Health Promotions was the community sponsor of the event, attended by over 33 Aboriginal organizations representing housing, front line services and support organizations. In addition to Nechi and Health Canada, the Forum Steering Committee had representatives from the Edmonton Aboriginal Urban Affairs Committee, the Edmonton Aboriginal Coalition for Children's Services, Canadian Heritage, Native Counselling Services of Alberta, and the Edmonton Homelessness City Coordinator (from HRDC). The key objectives of Forum were as follows: to identify and discuss housing and socio-economic issues impacting housing and the urban Aboriginal Community in Edmonton; to develop recommendations relevant to the urban Aboriginal community using a traditional Aboriginal tipi approach; and to identify next steps and report back to the Aboriginal community and non-Aboriginal organizations.

The Forum produced detailed recommendations which include the importance of having Aboriginal organizations to coordinate housing and housing-related initiatives; the need for additional and increased funding from the three levels of government for long term housing solutions for Urban Aboriginal People; and the provision of additional support to youth, seniors, the disabled and single parents. All recommendations were taken to a Think Tank facilitated by Native Counselling Services of Alberta held March 27, 2000 to discuss who and how the needs of Edmonton Aboriginal People will be represented in decisions affecting their housing, health and homelessness.

SOCIAL MARKETING AND PARTNERSHIPS SECTION

The Social Marketing and Partnerships Section (SMP) provides leadership and support for HPPB Alberta/NWT/Nunavut Region and its partners in population health marketing initiatives, training in social marketing planning and practices, the development and enhancement of intersectoral partnerships and electronic information management. SMP views social marketing as a planned strategy for changing behaviour. Within this context, the section works with multi-sectoral organizations to analyse, focus and target population groups to positively affect attitudes and beliefs about healthy choices and lifestyles.

Social Marketing and Partnerships has taken the lead in numerous initiatives which demonstrate the important role that social marketing concepts and practices play in enhancing Branch capacity to positively influence wellness within the framework of the population health approach. The following pages provide highlights of SMP work in this key area.

Social Marketing Network -Network News

Early in 1998 (following two social marketing conferences), the Social Marketing Section collaborated with the City of Edmonton on ways to provide colleagues and other professionals with information gained from the conferences. One of two significant outcomes was the Network News, a newsletter with social marketing/health promotion information which is sent out quarterly to subscribed colleagues by email or fax. This two-page newsletter is designed as an informational piece for health professionals and not-for-profit agencies interested in such aspects of health promotion social marketing as event or citizen access promotion.

Market Share Workshops

The other key important outcome of this collaboration between SMP and the City of Edmonton was what is called Market Share Workshops. Market Share is a series of workshops which focus on both traditional marketing and social marketing. The workshops are designed for an audience which has a diverse range of backgrounds and experience with the market planning process. Whether the participant's aim is to increase sales and attendance, or the desire to influence public attitudes and behaviours, Market Share provides a dynamic forum for learning, sharing, creating and developing marketing activities. Each Market Share session concentrates on a different stage of the "social marketing planning process". The list of workshops offered during 1999/2000 includes:

- Introduction to Traditional and Social Marketing
- Vision, Mission and Objective Setting
- Environmental Scanning and Trends Analysis
- Market Research
- Market Segmentation
- SWOT and Competitor Analysis
- Target Marketing and Positioning
- Strategic Market Planning

Graphics

The Graphic Development Section of Social Marketing and Partnerships is integral to Regional Branch operations in several key areas. These include management of the HPPB Regional web site (the site was launched in the fall of 1999 - full details in Section VI) and the support of Branch projects. Management of the web site includes the development of marketing materials for the web site, regular maintenance and updating of information and events. Activities that support Branch projects include the development of posters, brochures, banners, name tags, graphics for workshop materials, report covers and presentations.

Social Marketing Presentations

Social Marketing Presentations provides community groups with information about access to social marketing tools and strategies which is a priority for the Social Marketing and Partnership Section. Interactive presentations have been made at the Palliser Regional Health Conference in Medicine Hat, Health Canada's Medical Services Branch Annual Conference in Edmonton, the Building Sustainable Communities Forum in Edmonton and to the Health Promotion Studies Graduate Students at the University of Alberta. Participants are guided to the Social Marketing Tool Kit and other social marketing resources on-line at the regional web site:

www.health-santecanada.net.

Open House

Spearheaded by Social Marketing and Partnerships, the Alberta/NWT/Nunavut Region held an open house on May 28th, 1999, to welcome Health Canada staff to view the re-designed office space where all HPPB Edmonton staff now work in one location. It was a wonderful opportunity to showcase the work being done in this Region, and to familiarize staff in the rest of the Department with what we do. In focus groups held several months ago, it was found that many people in Health Canada are unfamiliar with the work of colleagues in other Branches. Finding out more about all parts of the Department will make us aware of more opportunities where synergies exist to work together.

The entry to the office had an HPPB display, highlighting our mission, our priorities and the five sections: Population Health, Childhood and Youth, Social Marketing and Partnerships, Research and Knowledge Development, and Planning and Operations. The staff of Planning and Operations hosted a refreshment area in our new Resource Room. Staff from the four program sections were on hand to host displays of their work.

The displays gave visitors an opportunity to experience the essence of each section; Population Health had a poster display on the Determinants of Health with a Population Health Promotion Tree to graphically demonstrate the concept; Childhood and Youth focused on Strong Families, Healthy Children; Social Marketing and Partnerships showed how social marketing is Helping You Make Healthy Choices; and Research and Knowledge Development showed how they are Helping Put Health Knowledge to Work.

OUR REGION AT WORK

THE CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH SECTION

The Childhood and Youth Section (CYS) manages the Community Action Program for Children (CAPC), the Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program (CPNP), and Aboriginal Head Start Initiative (AHS). Regional initiatives such as the following aim to strengthen the programs and coordinate with other provincial and national activities.

Linkages

CYS is collaborating with Alberta Health and the Alberta Baby Friendly Network to support breastfeeding in CPNP projects and in the community. Discussions have been initiated with the Food Commodity Promotion/Marketing Network in order to explore the possibility of working together to support the nutrition component of CPNP projects. Connections with CPNP projects on-reserve are being strengthened through CYS staff participation on a working group with Medical Services Branch staff.

Aboriginal projects funded by CAPC have been invited to sit on the Alberta Aboriginal Head Start Committee, through which AHS site representatives partner with Health Canada to direct off-reserve AHS program development. Through linkages with the National Office of Health Canada, Alberta projects are participating as delegates to "think tanks" of researchers and community programs, as well as conducting community-based research on how to involve fathers in early child development programs.

Evaluation

Evaluation is an important focus in all three funding programs. CPNP projects participate in a national evaluation which also permits data analysis at local and provincial levels. Preliminary outcome data is now available on recipients of CPNP programming. Findings on a group of women who did not receive CPNP services will be made available in the near future. The resulting comparative analysis will help us better understand which aspects of the program are most effective and thus should be replicated or given greater emphasis, as well as pointing out where and how we can strengthen other components as needed.

We have also undertaken evaluation work on CAPC. Over the past year, regional projects conducted a first run of outcome measurement based on the United Way of America model. The process proved valuable in building a common vision and providing information for program improvement. Future directions include building on what has been done to date, while moving to obtain stronger evidence of project success through strengthening data collection tools and methods.

Projects funded under AHS conducted local site evaluations during the early years of the program from 1996 to 1998. At present, Alberta projects are collaborating with Health Canada to develop a provincial evaluation strategy which would provide consistent, comparative information across all sites.

V

OUR REGION AT WORK

Electronic Networking

Health Canada is working to develop projects' capacity to connect with each other, with Health Canada, and with the "information highway" through the world wide web. Support has been provided for equipment, training needs have been identified, and the idea of a joint web site for Alberta AHS sites is being explored.

THE POPULATION HEALTH SECTION

The Population Health Section, through its program delivery work within the framework of the population health approach, promotes prevention and positive action on determinants that affect the health of the population as a whole, or that of specific population groups.

The Population Health Section thus uses this approach in the delivery and management of the Population Health Fund, the Community Animation Program, the AIDS Community Action Program, the Hepatitis C Prevention, Support and Research Program, and the Tobacco Enforcement and Compliance Initiative. Section activities focus on population groups from early adulthood to later life through the frameworks and funding dollars provided by these specific programs.

In August 1999, the Tobacco Enforcement and Compliance Program was transferred to the Health Promotion and Programs Branch following Health Canada's decision to consolidate all its tobacco control activities within a single Branch. In Alberta, Northwest Territories and Nunavut Region, it made sense to place enforcement work within the scope of responsibilities handled by the Population Health Section as this unit already had tobacco reduction activities underway. As well, a strong interest in youth is found within priorities in both sets of activities. This decision positions our region to provide an integrated approach to tobacco control by coordinating public education, social marketing and compliance activities.

The Population Health Section works collaboratively with other sections to promote use of a population health approach internally to create better informed decision-making. The section also furthers the application of the population health approach in communities and in settings involving different levels of government, thus building capacity - in a broad sense - to take action on the factors impacting our health.

Highlights of work in these areas include:

Climate Change

In 1999, Health Promotion and Programs Branch was invited to join the Clean Air Strategic Alliance, Climate Change Project Team. Given the potential impact of climate change on human health, this was seen as an important intersectoral partnership to promote population health. HPPB has supported the development of a survey to assess Albertans' knowledge, attitudes and barriers to taking action on climate change. Results of the survey will shape an outreach program aimed at increasing Albertans' understanding of, and ability to take action on climate change in the workplace and home.

OUR REGION AT WORK

Intersectoral Action Workshop

The workshop, held in Edmonton March 26, 1999, provided community leaders in the health sector an opportunity to increase their understanding of the benefits and challenges on intersectoral action. Dr. Michael Rachlis presented the keynote address and prepared a background paper on the benefits, barriers and facilitating factors of intersectoral action. The workshop was sponsored by Health Promotion and Programs Branch in partnership with Alberta Health and Wellness, Alberta Community Development, and the Capital Regional Health Authority. The evaluation of this workshop shaped the direction for the second workshop in a series of activities designed to promote intersectoral action for health.

Building Sustainable Communities Forum

Held in Edmonton November 26-27, 1999, the Forum was third in a series of workshops supported by the Community Animation Program. The goals of the Forum were to increase community leaders' understanding of the interconnectedness of health and the environment, and to build community leaders' capacity to address community sustainability through awareness of current resources, tools and existing sustainable community initiatives. Participants represented diverse sectors including urban planning, environment, agriculture, education, academia and health. The key note address: How We Live: Planning for Sustainable Communities was given by Dr. Ron Labonté, Director of the Saskatchewan Population Health Evaluation and Research Unit, University of Saskatchewan. The Forum was funded through the Community Animation Program and coordinated by the Alberta Lung Association, Environment Canada, the Alberta Environmental Network, Grande Cache Community Youth Centre, Precipice Theatre, the Town of Banff and Health Canada.

Teaming Up For Intersectoral Action Workshop

The Workshop, held in Edmonton January 28-29, 2000, provided regional intersectoral teams with an opportunity to refine their skills in communication and partnership development, and to build on team action plans. All sessions and activities focussed on improving the intersectoral teams' abilities to work together. The intersectoral teams included representatives from community agencies and organizations across Alberta, as well as provincial and federal government departments. The key note address: Framework for Intersectoral Policy Changes was given by Dr. Ginette Rodger, President of Lemire Rodger and Associates and Chief of Nursing at the Ottawa Hospital. Two tools to support intersectoral collaboration were launched. These included: the Draft Intersectoral Action Toolkit and the Intersectoral Action Web Board. The workshop was presented by Health Canada in collaboration with Dietitians of Canada and Alberta Health and Wellness.

THE PLANNING AND OPERATIONS SECTION

The Planning and Operations Team is responsible for providing administrative and financial services to support HPPB operations in the Alberta/NWT/Nunavut Region and for providing advice to management and staff on administrative regulations, policies and procedures. Areas of responsibility include managing human resources and accommodation activities, monitoring program expenditures and commitments, preparing budget forecasts and participating in strategic planning and priority setting.

Planning and Operations Staff also work closely with HPPB client groups, i.e., organizations funded through our program streams, to provide advice on financial management practices and ensure that project payments are processed promptly and accurately.

VI SPOTLIGHT ON SPECIAL COLLABORATIONS

The ability to work effectively in collaboration with others is a major theme of the population health approach and is one that you have seen reflected in the many government and community partnership initiatives described thus far. Certain collaborative endeavours, such as key multi-jurisdictional working groups and their accomplishments, unique models of practice, and special social marketing initiatives, stand out in particular because of their significance in furthering the spirit and practice of population health. These are the special collaborations that we would like to highlight below.

The Alberta Joint Management Committee: Working Together for Children

In 1993, the Governments of Canada and Alberta signed an agreement for the delivery of the Community Action Program for Children (CAPC). In 1995, a similar role was agreed upon for the Canada Prenatal Nutrition Program (CPNP). In order that these federal programs respond to provincial needs and priorities, the programs are co-managed by a Federal-Provincial Joint Management Committee (JMC). This Committee is composed of officials from the provincial ministries of Health and Wellness, Children's Services, and Learning, together with Health Canada officials and representatives from rural and urban areas of the province. Health Canada is represented by the Regional Director of HPPB, AB/NWT/Nunavut and the Region's Childhood and Youth Manager. The role of the JMC is to provide overall direction for CAPC and CPNP in Alberta, to recommend community programs for funding, and to promote the development of stronger links between federal and other programs in the province.

The protocol was the first step in a positive working relationship that has evolved and strengthened over the years. Through the JMC, information regarding current and future programs, as well as needs and gaps, is shared so that funding from different sources can complement each other and be spent where most needed for the benefit of children and families.

With the regionalization of both health and children's services, the JMC has seen the need to revise its terms of reference to reflect these new realities in the province. While the committee continues to monitor funded projects, assess needs and make funding decisions, the focus for the year 2000 and beyond is to forge strong linkages and to share the models of success that have been developed by CAPC and CPNP projects in Alberta over the past six years.

Initiatives on Fetal Alcohol Syndrome/Fetal Alcohol Effect (FAS/FAE)

In 1997, the Fetal Alcohol Syndrome (FAS) was identified as a priority area by the Alberta CAPC/CPNP Joint Management Committee. Two CAPC projects received pilot funding for prevention activities targeting women before childbearing as well as children suspected of, or diagnosed with FAS. A resource kit was developed and distributed to CAPC, CPNP and AHS projects.

The project report, Fetal Alcohol Syndrome: A Hopeful Challenge for Children, Families and Communities, by Equitable Consulting Services, has seen wide circulation in Alberta and nationally, because of its extensive review of the literature, resources, and best practices. A needs assessment is now being undertaken to assess the capacity of CAPC and CPNP projects to work effectively on FAS, and to make recommendations for further Health Canada involvement in this area.

In 1998, the Province of Alberta launched the Alberta Partnership on FAS, a comprehensive strategy on the fetal alcohol syndrome. The Partnership is responsible for developing a strategic plan, overseeing and coordinating initiatives and making policy recommendations on FAS. Health Canada is a member of the Partnership and actively involved in the implementation of its initiatives.

In February of 1999, the federal government announced a national FAS initiative. CYS staff participate in a national committee that is setting the direction for the initiative and consult with provincial colleagues to develop a coordinated and complementary strategy.

Aboriginal Head Start Conferences Community Strengths Shaping Community Futures

Since Aboriginal Head Start came to Alberta in 1995, the Childhood and Youth Section has sponsored an annual training conference for delegates from all the project sites. The conference provides an opportunity for elders, staff, board members and parents from all areas of the province to come together and share their challenges and accomplishments. Guest speakers on such topics as child development, behaviour management, cultural curricula, community development and traditional parenting contribute to skill development. Cultural celebrations promote cultural pride and a common sense of purpose.

The conferences are planned by a committee of project representatives which ensures that the topics addressed meet the needs of participants. Evaluations of the conference over the years have been extremely positive.

This year, Aboriginal projects funded under the Community Action Program for Children (CAPC) as well as the on-reserve AHS sites funded by Medical Services Branch, participated in the conference. This was the first opportunity for all Health Canada funded Aboriginal child development projects to network and to work collectively on developing strategies in three key areas: "Aboriginal Head Start's Role in Long Term Community Development," facilitated by George Calliou; "Community Approach to Family Healing," facilitated by Susan Powell and "Addressing Strategies in Behaviour Management for Children," facilitated by Caen Bly. The year 2000 gathering was a strong first step in the development of a network of AHS projects, both on and off-reserve, in Alberta.

New HIV Funding Model in Alberta

The AIDS Community Action Program, in collaboration with federal, provincial, and community partners, developed and implemented a joint HIV funding model entitled the Alberta Community HIV Fund. Utilizing a population health approach, the new funding model transfers responsibility for stewardship of the funding to a community-based organization.

The objectives of the Alberta Community HIV Fund are to: (1) develop a more simplified and transparent process reflecting the communities' needs; (2) improve coordination among HIV programs and services; (3) increase the involvement of community and improved use of community resources; (4) limit service/program duplication; and (5) increase opportunities to access additional funds through health and other sectors.

The Fund is coordinated through a Provincial Population Health Consortium. Consortium membership consists of representatives from: the Health Promotion and Programs Branch and Medical Services Branch of Health Canada; Alberta Health and Wellness; Alberta Family and Social Services; Alberta Justice; Alberta Education; Regional Health Authorities; the Alberta Community Council on HIV; Southern and Northern Alberta HIV Clinics; Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission; the Non-Prescription Needle Use Project; Mental Health; and persons living with HIV.

The Consortium works together to review and respond to community agency proposals in accordance with the AIDS Community Action Program's review process, allocate and monitor funds under the stewardship of the Alberta Community Council on HIV, and review project outcomes. The Consortium considers a number of data sources to determine funding priorities, including provincial HIV surveillance data, and HIV clinic and community AIDS organization data. By working together, the Consortium partners can identify issues, address funding-related gaps in HIV prevention and management in Alberta, and make recommendations regarding HIV funding-related issues to relevant ministries, agencies and the Alberta Advisory Committee on AIDS.

The Intersectoral Action Toolkit: The Cloverleaf Model for Success

Working in collaboration with HPPB's Regional Population Health and Social Marketing and Partnerships Sections, and with the Dietitians of Canada, the Research and Knowledge Development Section played a key role in managing the development of the draft Intersectoral Action Toolkit. The kit was developed in response to feedback from an evaluation on the Region's March 1999 Intersectoral Action Workshop, where participants identified the need for tools to support government, community and business partners in working effectively across the sectors.

VI SPOTLIGHT ON SPECIAL COLLABORATIONS

A literature search pointed out that many key steps in effective collaborations had been effectively mapped out in a publication entitled Collaboration Handbook: Creating, Sustaining, and Enjoying the Journey, by Michael Winer and Karen Ray, and published by the Amherst Wilder Foundation in 1994. The Foundation agreed to let HPPB and their contractor use extensive materials from the Collaboration Handbook, including their cloverleaf model of the collaboration process, to produce a compact and practical toolkit on how to undertake intersectoral action.

Two case studies which document intersectoral action underway in HPPB AB/NWT/Nunavut were added to highlight the challenges and successes of regional initiatives. The draft kit was distributed in print form at the Teaming Up for Intersectoral Action Workshop in January 2000 and made available electronically on the Intersectoral Action Web Board (please see below). Participant feedback was sought through evaluation of the workshop, and comments were also invited from the HPPB Regional Offices. A final edition of the toolkit should be available in July 2000 and will be distributed widely.

The HPPB Regional Web site: www.health-santecanada.net

The Social Marketing and Partnerships Section, working closely with all members of the Regional Office, launched the Health Promotion and Programs Branch, Alberta/NWT/Nunavut Region web site on October 1, 1999.

The web site contains information specific to HPPB programs and projects delivered in Alberta, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut. You will find information related to life cycle issues, projects funded under our program funding streams, social marketing, tobacco reduction and the environment, to name only a few. Overall, the site provides information on what we do as well as serving as a forum for networking and information exchange.

Of special interest for people "working in partnerships" is the Intersectoral Action (ISA) Web Board, as mentioned earlier in conjunction with the ISA Toolkit. The Web Board is a user friendly world-wide web site, that provides people with the opportunity to participate in a web conference, and to read or download messages and files. People can also post conference dates, project information, questions for practitioners, papers, and any other materials. You can click on the Web Board by using this address: <http://healthforum.ic.gc.ca:8080/~board31>

We encourage health professionals and the general public to visit the HPPB Regional Web Site for information on Healthy Living (Program/Project Information), Health Resources, an Events Calendar, Health Activities, and "Frequently Asked Questions". There are also a myriad of links to our community and national web sites, such as Health Canada On-Line and Health Promotion On-Line www.hc-sc.gc.ca/healthpromotion

Teaming Up Against Tobacco Campaign

The Social Marketing and Partnerships Section, in collaboration with a number of multi-sectoral organizations, has developed an anti-tobacco initiative aimed at school children in grades 4, 5 and 6 who are attending a public or separate school in the Capital Health Region (greater Edmonton). As you are probably already aware, tobacco use among Alberta's youth is on the rise. We chose these grades for our campaign as studies have shown that children in this age group begin to make their decisions about whether or not to use tobacco.

The campaign's title "Teaming up Against Tobacco" is based on the theme of showcasing Capital Region role models who are tobacco-free and who have "teamed up" to promote the anti-tobacco message. We plan to spread the campaign message through several mechanisms including:

- An anti-tobacco message contest for grades 4, 5 and 6 in cooperation with the University of Alberta and the Edmonton Drillers (Soccer Team);
- A T-shirt distribution to all grade 6 students with an anti-tobacco message on the back;
- Anti-tobacco messaging incorporated into the University of Alberta and Edmonton Driller school visits program;
- A poster give-away to all grades 4, 5, and 6 students featuring the "Teaming Up Against Tobacco Team"; and
- Anti-tobacco resource materials developed for teachers in keeping with current curriculum objectives.

The partners for the campaign include the following: the Capital Health Authority, the City of Edmonton (Community Services), Canadian Heritage, the University of Alberta (Department of Athletics), the Edmonton Drillers Soccer Club, the Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission, Edmonton Separate Schools, Edmonton Public Schools, and the Alberta Medical Association.

Alberta Provincial HIV Campaign - HIV...we're all affected

The Alberta Provincial HIV Campaign was launched in Red Deer, Alberta in February 1999 and will run through June 2000. Its objective is to raise awareness of HIV within Alberta. The project is a partnership between Health Canada and the Alberta Community Council on HIV (ACCH). The Social Marketing and Partnerships Section (SMP) has assumed the lead and the Population Health Section has provided financial support through the Population Health Fund and the AIDS Community Action Program. Key government, non-government and private sector organizations involved in the development and implementation of the campaign include: Alberta Health and Wellness, Hoffmann-LaRoche Pharmaceuticals, the Alberta Medical Association, the Red Cross, and the Edmonton Space and Science Centre.

VI SPOTLIGHT ON SPECIAL COLLABORATIONS

The campaign consists of four main components:

- HIV Awareness Exhibit
This exhibit is a mobile, interactive and educational HIV exhibit developed in cooperation with the Edmonton Space and Science Centre on tour in various communities throughout the province from February 22, 1999 until spring 2000.

HIV Service Organizations (HSO's) and their partners host the exhibit as it travels through their community. The HSO's make use of a campaign resource manual to assist in the design and implementation of activities tailored specifically for their region.
- Marketing Campaign
Three television Public Service Announcements featuring the band Wide Mouth Mason aired on Much Music during February, March, and November of 1999 and on provincial stations since February 1999.
- Information Access Campaign
Alberta Community Council on HIV home page and toll-free number:
Telephone number: 1-888-STOPHIV Web address: www.1888stopshiv.com
- Campaign Evaluation: to measure the campaign's impact, process and context.

Young Adults HIV Prevention Campaign - Hanging With Riff

Hanging with Riff is a social marketing radio campaign spearheaded by Alberta Health and Wellness, and designed to deliver HIV prevention messages to young heterosexual men between the ages of 18-26 years. This campaign is designed to catch the attention of young men in this age group, make them think about their risk for HIV and change their behaviour with respect to condom use. To appeal to this group, messages were woven into brief, soap-opera-like scenarios with men of similar age groups cast as characters. The program was initially piloted in Fort McMurray in 1998 and then broadcast throughout the province (Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge) in 1999.

The HPPB Regional office has contributed funding support through the Population Health Fund to the evaluation component of the campaign and the Social Marketing and Partnerships Section serves on the campaign working group.

Mental Illness : Anti-stigma Campaign

This campaign is a 5 year initiative led by the Alberta Mental Health Board, aimed at reducing the stigma of mental illness and increasing awareness of Albertans about mental health. The Social Marketing and Partnerships Section of HPPB provides support through serving on campaign's Health Promotion and Social Marketing Committee. The campaign itself was launched on June 2, 1999. Future events will include a major World Mental Health Day Conference in October, 2000 and a strategy to improve understanding and knowledge about mental health in the workplace.

VII WHERE WE ARE GOING

Fiscal year 2000 - 2001 will launch the Health Promotion and Programs Branch of Health Canada into the New Millennium. Looking ahead to our health future, it is clear that addressing complex and rapid change will continue to be a major challenge for governments, health practitioners, researchers, communities, businesses and politicians alike. Key to managing change and improving health outcomes will be the ability to make informed decisions based on the best evidence available, in an electronic era where evidence from all sources will continue to grow.

Through analysing and applying health knowledge gathered over the past decade, we have recognized that health is influenced by a variety of socio-economic and environmental factors which themselves evolve and change. This in turn has heightened our resolve to enrich the already strong collaborative relationships that we have been privileged to share with our partners both horizontally in governments and across the different sectors.

The coming year will therefore be one of focussed and results-oriented intersectoral activity for the HPPB Regional Office. We will build on shared accomplishments and engage in future, joint strategy development to improve health and wellness. In particular, we will continue to collaborate with our government partners to simplify and clarify processes related to program delivery, so that community members can benefit from a more integrated approach to addressing health concerns.

Our region will also build on its strong work in healthy child development by supporting culturally appropriate, community partnership initiatives which focus on prenatal and family health, positive early childhood experiences and enhancement of school readiness. The mobilization of the population health approach will be further enhanced by the showcasing of best practices in this field, and through strategic consultations with various sectors of our regional population to encourage greater citizen engagement in initiatives to support community wellness.

Research and Social Marketing will continue to work as a team with their Program Section colleagues to strengthen regional ability to analyse and apply evidence to program design, implementation, evaluation and dissemination. As well, there will be a focus on strategic use of the regional web site to enhance our capacity to network with and among community partners, and to share health knowledge from formal research and community experiential learnings.

With all its challenges, the new millennium also brings a wealth of opportunities to strengthen the well-being of Canadians. We look forward to consulting with you, our partners, on how we can best capitalize on these opportunities and direct our collective knowledge, talents and strengths towards taking action on health and the factors which influence it.

PROJECT: Deconstructing Dorothy: Changing Attitudes in Rural Alberta - ACAP

SPONSOR: Gay and Lesbian Alliance of Lethbridge and Area
1206 - 6th Avenue South
Lethbridge AB T1J 1A4
Phone: (403) 329-4666; Fax: (780) 328-8564

Funding Administered through the Alberta Community HIV Fund

AMOUNT: $5,075

The 'Deconstructing Dorothy' project is geared toward creating awareness among educators and counsellors about the relationship between young gay men and HIV infections; assessing barriers faced in their attempts to support young gay men; developing and delivering training; and strengthening the network of communication and referrals among the support and health service organizations in the area.

PROJECT: Inside Out - ACAP

SPONSOR: John Howard Society & Sik-Ooh-Kotoki Friendship Society
Box 1568
Lethbridge AB T1J 4K3
Phone: (403) 327-8202; Fax: (403) 320-8202

Funding Administered through the Alberta Community HIV Fund

AMOUNT: $19,800

This project develops and integrates into existing programs new information components about HIV infection for drug/alcohol users (Native and Non-Native) who are inmates at Lethbridge Correctional Centre and those being released. It also implements follow-up information to the same population and to others on the streets. In addition, it has begun the process of developing and establishing a needle exchange program in Lethbridge.

Through a partnership of AIDS Calgary and Safeworks Calgary, this project is developing a socially sensitive approach to a support group that aims to increase empowerment, awareness and self-care among current and recovering injection drug users and their sexual partners. The support group originated with concerns expressed by Safeworks clients and others infected and affected by Hepatitis C. These individuals indicated that they were having difficulty participating in groups where their issues were not understood and thus their needs not met. AIDS Calgary and Safeworks understand the lifestyle and literacy issues faced by their clients and wish to address these issues by continually educating themselves.

GRANT: $15,000

The funding for this project supports the provincial evaluation of the "Riff The Cat" Campaign. Telephone surveys with HIV committees, community-based HIV organizations and RHA contacts collect information on the organizations (kind and number) that used the materials; whether the materials raised questions about HIV, safer sex and testing; and if the materials encouraged discussion of these issues, was there an increase in knowledge. Other data collected pertains to the number of people representing the target group who noticed the ad and acknowledged and considered the messages. Finally, the evaluation will document whether there was an increase in condom use and HIV testing as a result of the provincial campaign.

Phone: (780) 423-2285; Fax: (780) 429-7908
jgurnett@bissellcentre.org

CONTRIBUTION: $8,000

This project is undertaken through a partnership of the Bissell Centre, Capital Health, the Canadian Liver Foundation, Streetworks and the Boyle-McCauley Health Centre. Its goal is to identify the issues faced by a high risk population living with Hepatitis C in Edmonton's urban core and to develop strategies among service providers to address the challenges. Project activities include conducting a needs assessment related to Hepatitis C with the target group and developing a network of agencies who provide services to people infected, affected or at risk of Hepatitis C infection in this area of the city. In particular, Bissell Centre wishes to learn how to reach females in the inner city as this group is under-represented in follow-up care for those testing positive for Hepatitis C.

PROJECT: Safe Body Art Pamphlet - HEP C

Edmonton AB T5J 3L5
Phone: (780) 488-5742; Fax: (780) 488-3735
director@hivedmonton.com

CONTRIBUTION: $6,000

The Safe Body Art pamphlet provides youth with information about the increased risks of Hepatitis C associated with body piercing and tattooing. It provides information on what to look for and questions to ask when choosing the artist. This project will update, reprint and distribute a pre-existing pamphlet throughout the province. Distribution points include participating body art establishments and health-related programs. The need for this project arose out of the recognition that large numbers of young people get tattooed or pierced and that this activity represents a potential health risk for Hepatitis C. Distribution of the initial information resulted in a high level of demand for the information thus this pamphlet was developed. This project is intended to respond to the demand as well as to reflect current knowledge with respect to Hepatitis C prevention.

Edmonton AB T5K 1C5
Phone: (780) 423-2031; Fax: (780) 425-6244
cdmspc@compusmart.ab.ca

CONTRIBUTION: $21,000

The goal of the project is the development of a cohesive federal-provincial framework for evaluating health proposals, projects and outcomes. An analytical framework will help unify, co-ordinate and strengthen the health promotion efforts of Health Promotion & Programs Branch (HPPB) and Alberta Health and Wellness. The framework will build on ongoing efforts to clarify what the population health approach looks like in practice, and how to best describe the key strategies integral to the mobilization process. Project activities include thorough research into health promotion activities at the federal and provincial levels; integrating and unifying the best practices of both HPPB and Alberta Health and Wellness; and developing a framework that evaluates cross-jurisdiction outcomes of health promotion activities in Alberta.

Edmonton AB T5G 3G4
Phone: (780) 459-1884; Fax: (780) 458-1883

CONTRIBUTION: $25,000

This forum was a capacity-building workshop which addressed cultural and socio-economic determinants of health and their application to Aboriginal homeless people. By using a traditional model of the Listening Circle, led by Reg Crowshoe (Calgary), the forum strengthened the participation of Aboriginal people and resulted in ownership of the process by all attendees. The active participation between Aboriginal and non-aboriginal participants improved relationships, enhanced understanding and resulted in a shared responsibility for recommendations and solutions. It is anticipated that long term results from the forum will emerge through work done by the Edmonton Urban Aboriginal Initiative and the City of Edmonton Homeless Initiatives.

Phone: (780) 453-5942; Fax: (780) 455-2196
cthervaldson@dnca.ab.ca

CONTRIBUTION: $30,000

The goal of this project is to enhance the physical and nutritional health of Alberta's students through an action-oriented, healthy eating and active living program to be offered in Alberta schools. Through the program, the Dairy Nutrition Council provides educational sessions and resources to teachers at the worksite. Additionally, project funding is used to conduct an environmental scan to identify nutrition education resource materials available to health educators in Alberta schools. Gaps are being identified that exist between the nutrition education resources currently available and the outcomes of the revised health curriculum. A cross section of Alberta teachers is being surveyed to determine the factors that influence their selection of nutrition/active living education materials for use in the classroom.

The goal of the project is to train Seniors to facilitate "Steady As You Go" (SAYGO) education and fitness classes for Seniors in the Lakeland Region. Two training sessions were conducted, targeting 34 groups of Seniors across the region. Additionally, the project supported Seniors Groups in the region to initiate self-sustaining SAYGO programs. Key activities also focus on promoting the program to groups of Seniors who did not participate in Phase I of the project. In particular, the project targeted Aboriginal Seniors, Francophone Seniors, and the frail elderly residing in lodges and long term care facilities in the Lakeland Region. An adapted SAYGO program was used with the frail elderly based on the "Sit and Be Fit" video from Focus on Families (Vancouver, B.C.).

CONTRACT: $3,155⁰⁰

This community garden is intended to enhance the quality of life for the Native people in the Peace River community. This project is based on major concerns about the Determinants of Health as they pertain to the Native population in this area. The garden promotes increased food security and provides social and educational opportunities. Elders and professional gardeners work with new gardeners. Partnering organizations have donated expertise, land and topsoil. A percentage of the garden yield is given to a local soup kitchen so that members will experience the value of giving something back to the community.

GRANT: $15,000

Project RAISE will develop a framework to enable adolescents to assess harassment and intimidation issues and will encourage student skill development in the area of conflict resolution. The project targets adolescent females (12 to 14 years of age). Project activities include facilitating a group focussed on developing healthy attitudes about the way the target population looks, feels, thinks and acts based on the "Navigating Towards Your North Star" three-step program. The goal is to establish 6 groups (6 to 8 girls per group) that will meet weekly, and one weekend day per month for five months.

THE MÉTIS SETTLEMENTS

The Métis Settlements of Alberta represent the only land-based Métis people in Canada and are comprised of eight distinct Métis settlements distributed throughout northern Alberta. These are the Buffalo Lake, East Prairie, Elizabeth, Fishing Lake, Gift Lake, Kikano, Paddle Prairie and Peavine Métis Settlements.

In 1996, the Métis Settlements General Council (representing the eight Métis Settlements) and the Government of Alberta entered into agreement to establish Region 18 Child and Family Services Authority to plan and deliver child and family services for the residents of the settlements.

The Health Promotion and Programs Branch, Health Canada, delivers several community-based programs in the settlements. Although these appear in this summary document under the appropriate regional health authority, for ease of reference we are also listing them here as they fall within the jurisdiction of Region 18 Child and Family Services Authority.

This Aboriginal Head Start project has two sites: one in Elizabeth and one in Fishing Lake. It is designed to meet the educational needs of children 3-6 years of age living in local communities. The program also incorporates culturally relevant services for pre-school children. The project will: prepare children for grade one; increase the child's knowledge and understanding of Aboriginal Métis/Cree culture; promote healthy relationships between children and their parents; and improve health and nutritional practices. The project operates from September to June each year.

The partners involved with the project include the Fishing Lake and Elizabeth Métis Settlements, Northlands School Division, Lakeland Regional Health Authority, Alberta Family and Social Services and Métis Elders.

In addition to the programs sponsored by the Settlements, there are several projects which provide programs in Métis Settlements and in partnership with the Settlements.

- The Coalition for Far North West Alberta in High Level, as one of its programs, offers a Head Start Program in Paddle Prairie. Work is currently under way to transfer this program to the Paddle Prairie Métis Settlement.
- The Brighter Futures project of the High Prairie and District Children's Resource Council has been providing CAPC programming in Gift Lake and Peavine since the project began, and more recently has started to offer services in East Prairie.
- The Healthy Babies CPNP project, sponsored by the Dr. Margaret Savage Crisis Centre in Cold Lake, serves Fishing Lake, Kikino, Buffalo Lake and Elizabeth.
- The Aboriginal Prenatal/Baby Counts CPNP project, sponsored by the High Level Native Friendship Centre, serves Paddle Prairie.
